

CyberSafety for Families

A CD Training Kit

By Paul O'Briant

Technology plays an ever increasing role in the lives of children and youth. While the rapid advancement in computer and internet technology offers exciting opportunities, it also creates new dangers. Cell phones with cameras and texting capabilities, video games, social networking sites and other related technologies have created opportunities for abusers to have access to vulnerable individuals in ways that were unimaginable just a few years ago.

O'Briant brings years of technology experience as the Chief Information Officer of a school district. As an active church member he has combined his love for God's people and his passion for new technologies into the work of CyberSafety for churches.

This CD training kit is designed to assist leaders in providing training for parents and other concerned adults so that they might be aware of the dangers and take action to ensure that children and youth are protected as they navigate the world of technology. Guidelines and other tools are to help assure online safety.

Content includes:

- What You Need to Know First
- Planning Guide
- Teaching Plans with Schedule Options
- Handouts
- Slide Presentation: offered in an audio and non-audio format

Mac and PC compatible

$35.00

ISBN 978-0-88177-592-1

Order from:

The Upper Room Book Store at www.upperroom.com 800-972-0433

Or from Cokesbury at www.cokesbury.com 800-672-1789